INVENTORS BARRED OUT.

Only Flying Machines That Have Been Patented Will Be Patented.

We hear a great deal from time to time in regard to new inventions which are coming out for the purpose of enabling a man to fly, either from efforts of his own or through the intervention of steam engines or other motors. It is interesting to note the attitude which the United States patent office has taken in regard to such inventions. They practically destroy all claims for flying machines before hand, and the following is an abstract from what is practically a circular letter sent out to all attorneys who have made application for flying machine patents. It reads as follows:

"On taking up this case for examination it is found that the invention disclosed thereby is, as a whole, incapable of practical operation, since without the assistance of gas, field or equivalent the device will be incapable of ascension. In other words, it is not useful within the meaning of the law.

"No evidence will be considered sufficient to demonstrate the operativeness of the device and warrant the withdrawal of the objection made by the office except a working model—that is, one with which it is possible to actually ascend and direct the course of flight at will."

Thus it is practically useless for any inventor to make an application for a patent until he has actually succeeded in flying. It is barely possible that such a stand as this in regard to certain inventions would not be strict, as there are many unpracticable ideas patented thru the world at large have any idea of. While it may be considered as a hardship by flying machine inventors that they are rebuffed from the protection of the patent office, yet until they have actually produced something which will accomplish the results claimed they certainly have no right to overlap or claim a position on the patent office.—Aeronautics.

One of the Entombed Miners Elected.

Tom Pictou was buried hundreds of feet in the ground in the Gaylord mine, and he was on the ticket for school director. Knowing almost to a certainty that there was no chance of his being found alive, no one ventured to suggest that another name be substituted on the ticket. Every vote was recorded in his favor, and with a pathetic touch of human nature one of his neighbors said after the result was announced, "If he gets out alive, the office is his, and if the poor fellow is dead we have respected his memory."—Wilkesbarre Daily News-Dealer.

To Stop the Pilgrimage.

The French authorities have begun to exert strong pressure to stop the annual pilgrimages by Moslems to the tomb of north Africa to the prophet's tomb in Mecca. It recently came out that it is the custom on board cholera infected pilgrim steamers returning from Mecca to burn the bodies of the victims of the disease in the funerals because it is forbidden to throw them into the sea.—Paris Letter.

A Great Secret Society Betrayed.

The greatest secret society man in America is Alvin Markoe of Chicago, at least that is what Mr. Markoe says himself, and he would like some person to dispute his claim. "I am 32 years of age," said Mr. Markoe, "and I am a member of 42 societies. I have taken the highest degrees in Masonry, Odd Fellowship and the Knights of Pythias and hold chairs in several of the fraternal insurance orders. I don't think there is another man in the United States who has such a record. A man in Philadelphia comes the nearest. He belongs to 30 secret societies."

"Don't you get your grips confused sometimes?"

"No," said Mr. Markoe, "because I use the signs and grips of only three orders. It would take a man with two hands to remember 42 of them."—New York Mail and Express.

A Verbal Bequest Held Good.

Just before Miss Mercy Morgan died in Stroudsburg, Pa., about a year ago, she made a statement to some of her friends that upon her death an old tin box, which was stored away in the house, was to go to her housekeeper, Mrs. Pryor. There was no will, and the administrator refused to give the box up. A jury has now said that Mrs. Pryor is entitled to the box, which when opened contained nearly $4,000.—Philadelphia

Talking Through His Tile.

George M. Pullman—worth $50,000,000—told a newspaper reporter, "I believe that I was far happier in the days when I hadn't a dollar than I am now." That is all very fine, but if he was happier then, why not go back to those halcyon and dollarless days? The disposition of his great wealth need not bother him. The fact that George M. Pullman is working early and late to add to his "burden" of wealth and responsibilities is evidence that the palace car king is "talking through his hat."—Philadelphia Press.

A Possible Condition.
